

Long ere the morn Ex - - pects the re - turn Of Apel - lo from the o - cean queen, Be -

-fore the creak Of the crow and the break Of the day in the wel - kin seen,

Mounted he'd halloo, And cheer -ful -ly follow To the chace with his bu - gle clear.

Echo doth he make, And the moun - tains shake, With the thun - der of his ca - - reer.